A MEMBER OF BOARD OF CONTROL

Of Kentucky State Fair, Is Mr.
W. R. Moorman, Jr., of Glendale, This County.

Mr. W. R. Moorman, Jr., of Glen deane, this county, and a member of the Board of Control of the Kentucky State Fair, has been made superintendent of the beef cattle display at the fair this week.

The fair management was indeed for-unate in securing the services of Mr.

Moorman, for no better man than he could have been found for this purpose. A rafter of fine blooded cattle himself is in a position to make this part of the exhibits interesting and successful. The cattle exhibit will be one of the main features of the fair, and the honor that has been conferred upon Mr. Moorman is one that he should be proud of.

Mr. Nathaniel Ahl, of Moweaqua, Ills., is on a visit to his son, Alcock Ahl, of Tobinsport. Mr. Ahl was formerly a citizen of the Skillman vicinity. He was in Cloverport Monday and his many friends here were glad to see him once more. He has "been away from the county for about ten years.

NARROW ESCAPE IN RUNAWAY.

Painful and Exciting Experience of Miss Ola Fallon and Her Two Visitors Sunday.

Two horses attached to a surrey, in which were four occupants, took fright on the river road near the residence of Mr. John Gregory Sunday afternoon and ran away. The occupants were Mr. Charlie Fallon, Miss Ola Fallon and her two visitors, Miss

Gertie Strother, of Louisville, and Miss Cora Gibson, of New Albany. All of them were either thrown from the vehicle or jumped and were more or less injured, though none very seriously.

When the frightened animals began to run, Miss Fallon, who was driving, saw that they were beyond her control and attempted to climb out to reach the bits when he was thrown to the ground. With the horses dashing madly up the street and no driver in charge, the young ladies became badly frightened and sought to save themselves from the peril they were in by jumping to the ground. Miss Gibson was thrown on her face, both wheels of the surrey passing over her back, bruising her quite badly. Miss Strother suffered a sprained ankle and other bruises in jumping. Miss Fallon received injuries to her forehead and elbow, though not serious.

The occupants all got out, the horses continued their flight up the street until they came to the livery stable where they were stopped. The young ladies had sufficiently recovered from their injuries for the two visitors to return to their home the next day.

James and Samuel Rice, of Decatur, Ill., were here last week visiting their uncle, Mr. John Corley, whom they had not seen in 34 years. They formerly lived at Patesville and moved to Decatur in 1872.

HARDIN AND TRIGG COUNTIES GO DRY.

Elections were held in Hardin and Trigg counties on last Saturday to determine whether or not they shall have saloons.

In each of the counties the local option advocates won—in Hardin by a majority of 551 votes and in Trigg by 64. In both counties the question was a hard fought one between the temperance people and the whisky element and the former are jubilant over their victories.

BIG DEFICIT.

In Reserves Held by New York Banks Below Legal Limit.

The stock market practically ignored the showing of the deficit, but the legal reserves requirements of the clearing house banks Saturday were the largest when the statement first appeared, and then rose vigorously on powerful support to a strong closing. Speculative confidence was professed that heavy engagements of gold for importation will be avoided by means of the order of the secretary of the treasury to facilitate the import movement, will be sufficient to replenish the loss in New York. WEDNESDAY SEPTEMBER 19, 1906.

For Congress.
HON. BEN JOHNSON

State Senator Hickman is dead.

The bridge needs some more patches.

Hardinsburg is getting real busy. She is trying to land several big enterprises.

The State Fair is a howling success; so say the Louisville papers. Lexington is yet to be heard from.

The next best fair to the State Fair is the Owensboro Fair. Get ready for it; October 2 is the date.

There are 200 cases of typhoid fever in Mercer county, a majority of them being in Harrodsburg. Poor water is named as the cause.

Vic Robertson has the sympathy of the entire community in the loss of his wife. The News especially feels for him in his great distress.

The paramount issue in the next Democratic campaign, if Mr. Bryan is the nominee, will be Government ownership of railroads. Like the fine coinage of silver, in 1900, it won't dawn, even if it is named in the platform.

The Hardinsburg Fair is, it is said, a sure go. The citizens of town are to be congratulated. It will be a great uplift to the stock interests, as well as all other interests in the county. Every citizen who takes a pride in his county should lend a helping hand and speak a good word for it.

CHURCH DEDICATION.

Methodist Church at Dundee Dedicated Last Sunday--Rev. Currie Preached Dedication Sermon.

On last Sunday the Methodist Episcopal church South at Dundee, Ky., was dedicated. A morning service was held at 11 o'clock and in the afternoon at 3 o'clock another sermon was delivered, followed by the dedicatory service. Rev. Currie, pastor of the Cloverport Methodist church, delivered the dedicatory address.

At the morning service a collection was taken to liquidate the indebtedness against the church and the generous response from the people was sufficient to free the church from the debt incurred.

A large crowd was in attendance and dinner was served on the ground. Rev. Frank Baker is pastor of the new church.

Death of Mrs. J. A. Witt.

It is with a feeling of sadness that the News records the death of Mrs. J. A. Witt, of Hardinsburg. Mrs. Witt has been a sufferer for more than a year, and her death was not a surprise to her many friends. About a year ago Mrs. Witt went to Owensboro to live with her daughter there, but the health there was gradually failing. Previous to that time she had been a resident of Hardinsburg, going there to live soon after her marriage with Mr. J. A. Witt in 1875. Mrs. Witt was a member of the Methodist church South, and took an active interest in all church and charitable work.

The funeral services were held at Hardinsburg Monday afternoon, Mrs. Witt was 64 years of age.

of the Trouble at the Canning Factory--The Outlook Is Bright.

An early adjustment of the trouble at the canning factory, which started last week when the girl employees quit work, is now looked forward to and it is confidently believed that the factory will soon be in full operation again. At present it is being operated under unfavorable conditions, but the citizens of the town have taken the matter in hand and will bend every energy to get matters in shape. At present the outlook for an early adjustment is very flattering.

YRUS U. MILLER DEAD

Well-Known Young Man Dies At Hardinsburg Saturday.

Hardinsburg, Ky., Sept. 18.—(Special)—Cyrus W. Miller, aged 34 years, the only son of Judge Mathias Miller, died at the home of his mother-in-law, Mr. T. J. Hook, last Saturday evening about 11 o'clock. The funeral services were held at the Methodist church, South, Sunday afternoon, and were conducted by the Rev. G. S. King, the pastor of the church. An audience that crowded the church to its utmost capacity assembled to pay the last tribute of respect to his memory. The interment was in the Miller graveyard. The deceased was one of the most progressive young farmers and business men of the county and his success along these lines was pronounced. He possessed many admirable traits of character and he was universally liked and respected by all who knew him.

A few days before his death he professed relief and died in the hope of regaining the health of the blood. He was fully conscious of the approaching end and was resigned. Besides his father he leaves three sisters, Mrs. T. J. Hook of this place, Mrs. John E. Monarch of Owensboro and Mrs. Milton Board of Hopkinsville.

The Breath of Life.

It is a significant fact that the strongest animal of its size, the gorilla, also has the largest lungs. Powerful lungs mean powerful creatures. How to keep the breathing organs right should be man's chiefest study. Like thousands of others, Mrs. Ora A. Stephens, of Port Williams, O., has learned how to do this. She writes: "I have stopped my course of two years and cured me of what my friends thought consumption. O, it's grand for throat and lung trouble." Guaranteed by Severs Drug Co. Price 50c and $1.00. THE KENTUCKY STATE FAIR

Now in Full Blast in The Metropolis--Grandest in History Of Commonwealth.

The Kentucky State Fair is on in Louisville this week, and promises to be the grandest ever given in the history of the State. The highly organized, artistic and gaudy displays are attracting thousands of people from throughout the State to the city to attend the fair. The stock displays and other exhibits are elaborate and almost beyond conception in point of gaudiness.

The management of the Fair is highly elated over the success of the undertaking so far and looks forward with confidence to a week's meeting that surpasses any ever held in the State in point of fine displays and the large attendance at the exhibits. A serious problem is already confronting the management in the way of providing room for the exhibits and telegrams are being sent to exhibitors not to come, as it is impossible to provide space for them.

SOFT CORE

Like the running brook, the red blood that flows through the veins has to come from somewhere.

The springs of red blood are found in the soft core of the bones called the marrow and some say red blood also comes from the spleen. Healthy bone marrow and healthy spleen are full of fat.

Scott's Emulsion makes new blood by feeding the bone marrow and the spleen with the richest of all fats, the pure cod liver oil.

For pale school girls and invalids and for all whose blood is thin and pale, Scott's Emulsion is a pleasant and rich blood food. It not only feeds the blood-making organs but gives them strength to do their proper work.

as in the days of his youth. Mr. St. Clair is now eighty years of age. He is a brother of Mr. Wash St. Clair, of Webster.

BADLY FRIGHTENED.

Mrs. H. J. Hallenberg confronted by negro thief.

A bold attempt at robbery was made at 10 o'clock yesterday morning by a negro, who entered the residence of Henry J. Hallenberg, president of the Wedekind Hallenberg Tanning Company, 1817 Second street, and seriously frightened Mrs. Hallenberg who was still in bed at the time.

Shortly after 10 o'clock Mrs. Hallenberg was awakened by a noise in the room but, under the impression that the noise was made by a servant, did not pay much attention to it. She was startled a moment later when a negro approached her and told her that she would be quiet no harm would be done her. Disobeying the order of the intruder, Mrs. Hallenberg frantically called for assistance. The servants in the house were attracted by her screams and appeared in her room immediately in reply to her call, when the negro dashed down the front steps, making his escape.

Mrs. Hallenberg speedily returned from Bent Harbor where she had been for the benefit of her health. Dr. J. A. Flexner, the attending physician, fears that the nervous shock she suffered yesterday morning will have an effect upon her health and will be a relapse—Friday's Courier-Journal.

Mr. Hallenberg is a son of Mr. Wm. Dittt, of Brandenburg.

That the landing was a complete surprise to the government here was evident. That it was not made under instructions from Washington also was made plain but the reasons that General Commander Colwell were set forth in detail.

It is stated there is no purpose of intervention in all this; that President Palma has been so informed, and the ships are going to Cuba precisely as they were sent to one of the states of Central America in case of war or revolution where considerable American interests were threatened. There will be no interference with the politics of the island.

She was ordered to proceed to Cuba for the protection of American interests. The Denver engineer 150 well drilled sailors and seven old salt gunners.

That the landing was a complete surprise to the government here was evident. That it was not made under instructions from Washington also was made plain but the reasons that General Commander Colwell were set forth in detail.

It is stated there is no purpose of intervention in all this; that President Palma has been so informed, and the ships are going to Cuba precisely as they were sent to one of the states of Central America in case of war or revolution where considerable American interests were threatened. There will be no interference with the politics of the island.

Mr. Bryan was welcomed by Henry Watterson, who presided. Other speakers were Senators Carmack of Tennessee and Stone of Missouri.

Old Grudge Results in Killing.
Parkersburg, W. Va., Sept. 10.—
Trouble between Martin Deavaughn and John Carey.—Battling with Ohio railroad brakemen at the Jennings House, in this city, resulted in the former being shot and instantly killed by Carey, who was landed in the county jail after a chase. The man had a grudge against each other more than a year ago. Deavaughn was trouble about a girl who resided at Grafton, and the argument which ended in the murder, it is alleged, was a renewal of the old disputes. Relatives of Deavaughn reside at Walker Station, while Carey is said to be a member of a prominent family of Morehead, Ky.

James Arbaugh, a grocer, who was coming up the track, stumbled over the body in the darkness. He pulled Lewis to safety just two minutes before the midnight express went rushing past.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 10.—It was announced by the state prison commission that M. D. McInerney of Covington was appointed to a position in the Frankfort penitentiary, to take effect Oct. 1. The commissioners declared that just who McInerney's place will be, he does not know, whether he will be deputy warden, clerk or warden. It was understood last winter that McInerney wanted to be warden.

Dr. Shop's Night Cure Soothes, Heals and Cures while the Patient Sleeps

The best remedy which physicians know for female troubles is composed of parts of a certain plant which are dried and the poisons and heat the inflamed membranes. This salve is used by physicians and nurses, by druggists and physicians everywhere as Dr. Shop's Night Cure. It is a salve which while the patient sleeps and the membranes are relaxed, stimulates the circulation, removes the discharges, strengthens the womb, cures women's diseases. They live longer, stronger, well day—yet sometimes times unless they are willing to sleep.

A sporting paper recommends a certain way of avoiding the bites of a dog, however savage. One has to do is to stand perfectly still. The dog, the warden, will take the hand in his mouth, but will not bite it. But what we have heard is that the dog knows this?—London Globe.

Know From Experience.
"I saw a friend the other day, you are an old hand at it. I have only just got married, and don't understand much about the business, but has a married man any rights left when he once assumes the hymenial responsibilities?"

"Rights? Yes, lots! He's a right to pay all the bills, to!"

"Stop. I mean this. Let me give you an instance. Every box and drawer and portmanteau and, in fact, every article of furniture of every description is stuffed full of my wife's property and when I want to put away a few cents and dollars?"

"Hold hard! I know what you mean. Listen, young man. If your bedroom is over 200 yards long and lined from end to end with boxes and drawers and you wanted a place to stow away a couple of dollars, you couldn't find a nook that wasn't full of hairpins, tufts of frizzles, pads, scent boxes, old gloves, powder puffs, rings and things. So just accept the inevitable. You can't get rid of them. Get an old newspaper or some brown paper and hide the parcel under the bed."

The inquirer smiled loudly and ironically and passed on a wiser if not a better bet.

Eskimo Throwing Sticks.

A "throwing stick," "throwing board" or "spear thrower," as it is sometimes called, is a contrivance for casting a javelin or harpoon, which is employed by various savage nations, American tribes and especially by the Eskimos, among whom its use is almost universal. Roughly speaking, it is a narrow grooved board a foot or so long, with one end cut into a handle and the other provided with a stud or spike at the bottom of the spear to rest upon. It is used more or less like a halberd as he would a sword, the man fits the shaft of the spear into the groove, with the butt resting against the stud, steady the spear with the finger. Then, extending his arm and bending back his hand till the spear points forward, he gives a quick forward jerk of the stick. In this way we have seen Eskimos casting their forked javelins at wounded waterfowl.

When Buchanan Was King.
George Buchanan was a scholar, historian and poet, and probably the best Latin poet of his age. Buchanan was sent to Mary, Queen of Scots, and to her son James, afterward James I. of England. One day he caused himself to be made king of Scotland, and this was the beginning of his reign. Buchanan was a teacher, too, and in his absence, he drew up a paper for the royal pupil to sign. James did so at once without having read it. The document happened to be a transfer of the royal authority to Buchanan for fifteen days, and in this time the boy got it into his head that he must be king of the possession, even before the king himself. James thought the man a lunatic until the instrument was produced by which he had signed away his sovereignty. This incident was used by the worthy preceptor to illustrate the boy's lesson on the responsibilities of monarchs.

Monkeys make poor nurses.
"Monkeys make poor nurses," said a zoö keeper. "When they live near a stream of water and the water covers the floor, they don't want to drink it. They don't want to play around. His signs and grunts annoy them. 'Psst!' off the dock!"

In her captivity in Italy she had to remove at once from her monkey from his home in the beach. Otherwise, she would soon kill him. When she can, well monkeys take a strange joy in tormenting an invalid. They bite the end of his tail, they drag him about, and they pinch him. Finally, when he dies as many as can find room sit on him, close together, very solemn, as though engaged in some religious ritual.

Placed on Track by Robbers.

It is said that during the siege of Mytilene in the Dardanelles, when a party of British, advancing in thick darkness, climbed up an almost precipitous wall, once or twice they were faintly challenged. At last a Boer regaled them and shouted to the sentry to fire on the "verdoline rookinets!" As the crew of the ship began to shout, the voice of the attackers began to reply, but they were stopped, and the voice of the commanding officer was heard to give the order, "Fire bayonets!" That there were no bayonets did not matter. The men, taking up the cry, rushed out of the Boer gunners, who fled at the sight of the cold steel.

The Streets of Peru.

The streets of Peru, especially on gala days or when they wear the special dress of some celebration, are said to be among the most picturesque in the world.

In their narrow, winding streets, they resemble somewhat the streets of China, and the variety and contrast of the colors used in decoration may be compared with the Chinese. There is, however, a distinct Latin character to the decoration, which lends them an atmosphere entirely their own.

DECAPITATION.

The Theory of Sensation After the Head Is Severed.

Half a dozen physicians were talking of death. It isn't a subject usually chosen by physicians for discussion, but these were discussing it. However, it has been suggested that the head, if it can make the life I live hereafter, is the body that I ought to live. They were including the hereafter.

"Well," said one, "I don't know whether there is to be a hereafter or not, and it doesn't trouble me very much. I have a good deal to live for if I can make the life I live hereafter, it is the body that I ought to live. There is one thing about it that makes me hope there will be another life, and that is the opportunity I shall have of saving some of the people who have and the bodies that are fit to be saved."

"Well," said another, "I don't know whether there is to be a hereafter or not, and it doesn't trouble me very much. I have a good deal to live for if I can make the life I live hereafter, it is the body that I ought to live. They were including the hereafter.

CUTICURA REMEDIES
WORK WONDERS.

"As I was a sufferer with eczema I write to tell you what a great friend I found in Cuticura Remedies. In six months I had three doctors, but did not get any better. It was on my eyelids. I told so that I could hardly put a pin on me without touching eczema. My brother-in-law told me about the wonderful Cuticura remedies. I took his advice and got the Face Cream, Soap and Resolvent. I washed with the Cuticura Soap and then applied the Ointment. He told me to apply it three times a day. In a short time my face began to get better, and when I had taken one bottle of Resolvent I could brush the scales off. Now my face is clear as it ever was.

GLASGOW, KY.,
Tuesday, September 19, 1906, was the greatest day in the history of Liberty College.

This was our opening day, and our hearts were made glad by the enrollment of 146 pupils; 70 of these being from various parts of Kentucky and some from other States, viz., Tennessee, Texas, Arkansas, Montana, etc. We have more than twice as many in the college home as at the opening last year, which was our largest year.

We are expecting about 25 day pupils next week, as many are waiting until the county fair is over; and we hope by October 1, to have 90 in the college home.

We have increased our faculty and now have 16 instructors.

At opening we had many visitors and some splendid addressees, among them the Rev. Dr. J. W. Burnett, of Springfield, Tenn., Dr. J. W. Loving also present.

On the same day the trustees awarded the contract for our new building, and work is being pushed. Teachers and pupils are entering heartily upon their work.

A Welcome to Bryan.

During William Jennings Bryan's recent visit to Louisville, when the gates of that city were thrown wide open to him the Louisville Herald's editorial columns contained a welcome to Bryan which was beautifully worded and showed a broadmindedness and liberality that could be followed with grand results by newspapers of both parties. The Herald's welcome follows:

Kentucky's metropolis has handed her keys to William Jennings Bryan. This Republican city is proud to have so distinguished an American and so great a Democrat for guest. We believe in the exemplary personality of Col. Bryan!

A loyal husband and devoted father, a true neighbor and an upright citizen, he is by everyone in his own community held in highest regard.

It is even happy for a community to be fortified by the presence and the efforts of such men. They abound fortunately on both sides of politics. Differing from our British brethren in that important respect, we have had too much heat and often too much acrimony in political warfare.

The issues dividing us are, indeed, very important, but not more so than those separating men and parties in other countries. We are learning moderation and increasing in toleration.

Mr. Bryan's cordial welcome to this Republican city by men of all parties is proof that the bitternesses of the past are dying out. Nothing wrong in Republicans bestowing admiration on a great Democrat when they see him. Nothing reprehensible in Democrats doing honor to a great Republican when they recognize him.

The Herald extends good wishes to Mr. Bryan, the citizen. It trusts that abandoning all evil suggestions and rising above all ill-advised courses, he may one day see fit to adopt the policies laid down by Abraham Lincoln, the purposes defined by Mr. McKinley and the principles so diligently advocated by Theodore Roosevelt.

Mr. Bryan, you are welcome to Louisville and to Old Kentucky.
